Says Navy Ready To Convey Ships If Assigned

Knox Declines Comment As To Stimson's Speech "Paving The Way"

BULLETIN
Washington, May 7.—(AP)—Legislation to permit President Roosevelt to requisition idle foreign ships in United States ports for national defense was passed by the house today and sent to the senate.
Approval came on a roll call vote after the members had defeated two attempts to prohibit the president from transferring any ship taken over from one belligerent to another.
The legislation specifically would authorize the president to purchase, requisition or take title to any idle foreign merchant ship deemed necessary for national defense "for such use or disposition as he will direct."
It would apply to 83 foreign ships, including 2 German and 28 Italian vessels, and would expire June 30, 1942, unless the present emergency ended before that date.
The maritime commission would be given authority to purchase or charter foreign-owned ships—a power it does not now have.

Washington, May 7.—(AP)—Secretary Knox said today that the navy is "ready to convey" ships to the United States if assigned to that duty.
The navy department chief made the statement at a press conference in commenting on a speech last night by Secretary of War Stimson in which Stimson advocated use of the United States navy to assure a victory for Britain in the battle of the Atlantic.
At the same time, Knox disclosed that the navy was taking over "the sea-going activities" of the coast guard. The process, he said, amounts to a "transfer of the coast guard ships and their crews."
Knox was asked by reporters for comment on Stimson's plea for naval action "right now" and he said, "I thought it a forthright, courageous and very enlightening talk animated by a high spirit of patriotism."

Shortly before Knox's press conference, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) announced that Chairman Emory S. Land of the maritime commission had informed him that 205 ships that left our ports with supplies for England were sunk in the first three months of this year.

At the intersection of River and Market streets in Mokena at 5 o'clock last evening, the autos of De Witt Carpenter and William Prairie, both of Mokena, collided.
The autos were badly damaged but no one was hurt.

State Wages And Hours Act Is "Killed" In Lower House Today

Springfield, Ill., May 7.—(AP)—The Illinois house today killed the Hunter bill for a state wages and hours act by a vote of 72 to 50.
The vote upheld the action of the house industrial affairs committee in recommending defeat of the wage-hour bill that had been supported by both A. F. of L. and C. I. O. leaders.
Rep. Edward C. Hunter (D-Rockford), sponsor of the bill, moved that the house override the committee's report, calling on Republican members, the lower chamber to "support Governor Green's campaign pledge favoring a minimum wage law."
Defeat of the motion to override the committee's action means that the Hunter bill will not appear on the legislative calendar and house leaders acknowledged that the bill was dead.
Rep. Hunter waved a copy of Governor Green's letter of last October to A. F. of L. leaders—in which the Republican governorship candidate expressed support of wage-hour legislation for intrastate work-

Six Thousand Deportable Aliens In U. S.

160 German Seamen Are Rounded Up For Questioning In N. Y.

Washington, May 7.—(AP)—Attorney General Jackson said today there were 6,000 deportable aliens who are still "free" in the United States as he ordered the round-up of 160 German seamen for questioning.
The justice department revealed that officers had been directed to round-up the seamen who were supposed to be in New York, Miami, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Kansas City under an agreement permitting their freedom after deportation orders were completed but could not be executed for lack of machinery.
The department also said that 125 Italian seamen were taken from Ellis Island last night to Fort Missoula, Mont., to be held in an army camp taken over there for detention of aliens. It is planned eventually to put all the interned Italians at the fort. The men were members of the crew of the Conte Biancamano, taken into protective custody in the Panama canal zone.
The attorney general, in an address prepared for the American judicial society, warned that "under modern methods of warfare the most critical period for a nation under attack is the period preceding the actual employment of military force."

Secret Weapon of Nazis

"The secret weapon of the Nazis" was the kind of speech with which I imagine the illustrious and venerable Marshal Petain might well have addressed the nation.
Then, turning on Lloyd George, he called the former prime minister's speech unhelpful and unworthy of a great world war leader.
"It was the kind of speech with which I imagine the illustrious and venerable Marshal Petain might well have addressed the nation," Churchill said.

Critical House Of Commons Approves Acts

Strongly Attacks Attitude Of David Lloyd George In Commons

By WALLACE CARROLL
United Press Staff Correspondent
London, May 7.—(AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill won an overwhelming vote of confidence in the house of commons today after pledging the British empire to "fight to the death" in defense of its strongholds in the Mediterranean and middle east.
"I am the one whose head should be cut off if we do not win the war," Churchill said. Commons then voted confidence, 447 to 3.
The prime minister declared that "a great deal more help from the United States" was needed by Britain and that he expected Britain would get it.
The United States patrol announced by President Roosevelt on which the American navy and air force already are engaged takes in a considerable part of the Atlantic ocean and in a certain degree takes it off our hands, but we need a good deal more help; and I expect that we shall get a good deal more," Churchill said. "Anyone can see Hitler's fear of the United States by the fact that he has not long ago declared war on them."

May Close Panama Canal To Japanese Ships In 10 Days

Tokyo, May 7.—(AP)—Several shipping concerns advised Tokyo from San Francisco that the United States probably will close the Panama canal to Japanese ships within 10 days.
This virtually would shut off Japanese trade with the east coast of South America and force Japan to deliver such principal cargoes as silk to the west coast.
As for silk, this would completely disrupt a profitable business now done by the Japanese.
The report could not be confirmed from any quotable quarter in Tokyo.

Gilman Flier For Britain Is Killed At Sea

Gilman, May 7.—(RN Special)—R. E. Fordyce, 20, of Chicago, one of 11 United States ferry plane pilots lost at sea by enemy action, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Fordyce of Gilman.
In a story from Ottawa, Can., yesterday it was learned that Fordyce and 10 other American pilots engaged in ferrying planes across the Atlantic to Great Britain, went down on a torpedoed troopship. It is presumed that a submarine attacked the ship.
Pilots who fly the planes across wait for boats to return to this side of the Atlantic.
Fordyce attended high school in Gilman, Notre Dame university for one year and then went to Chicago to live with his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. John W. Fordyce. His uncle, John H. Finch, said the family was unable to dislodge him from flying for Britain. The young man was a member of the North Shore Flying club of Chicago.

Snakes Alive! Yes Sir--In Reineohl's Car

If Druggist Frank Reineohl, 647 East Oak street, offers you a ride in his car, don't be surprised if a friendly snake crawls up out of the tonneau and nestles in your lap.
You won't just be "seen" things either, for a four foot bull snake has inhabited Frank's car the past two days, defying all efforts to dislodge it.
The dithering fellow—really harmless, you know—was found by Martin VanderKarr and brought to Hattenburg's pharmacy Sunday for Mayor Albert Hattenburg, a snake fancier.
But the mayor wasn't there at the time so Reineohl popped the snake into a box and put it into his car to await the mayor's arrival. Meanwhile Mr. Snake wriggled out of the box and crawled into an inaccessible spot between the tonneau and left rear fender of the auto.
Frank drove to the fire station this morning and fremen squirted water through the hole but the snake didn't come out. They removed upholstery and tried tickling the creature with wires but Mr. Snake continued to laugh up his sleeve.
A crowd of 20 hangers-on offered all sorts of advice, but the snake was still ensconced in his confining habitat when Frank drove off.

23,000 Fewer Chickens In County Than 10 Years Ago

Washington, D. C., May 7.—(RN Special)—Kankakee county farmers are going along with the national trend so far as poultry production is concerned, and reducing the number of chickens raised, Agriculture census reports showed today.
According to the census statistics, there were 200,842 chickens four months old or more on 2,108 Kankakee county farms in 1940. Ten years earlier, Kankakee county farmers were raising 223,176 chickens.
Of the 6,096,799 farms counted in the 1940 census throughout the country, 5,150,055 of them had 237,949,145 chickens on hand April 1, compared with 378,879,281 ten years earlier. Despite this reduction, poultry production, largely a by-product on most farms, is still one of America's great billion dollar industries.
A Lot of Eggs
In Kankakee county, the 1939 production of eggs was 1,388,554 dozens. This egg production was at the rate of over 22 dozen per capita of population. In the whole country, 2,261,091,510 dozens of eggs were produced, at a rate of over 18 dozen per capita.
At 21 cents per dozen, the recently pegged egg price, the cash value of Kankakee county's annual egg crop alone would be $291,586. In addition to the cash value of the 183,532 chickens sold alive or dressed.

Stalin's Action May Be Warning To Germany

Assumption of Direct Executive Power Of Major Importance

By FREDERICK KUN
United Press Staff Correspondent
London, May 7.—(UP)—British leaders and foreign diplomats agreed today that the assumption of direct executive power in Russia by Josef Stalin was of major world importance and that it reflected growing Russian anxiety regarding Germany's ambitions.

In some diplomatic quarters it was suggested that the move meant that Russian leaders were increasingly inclined to believe that despite all its efforts, Russia might be involved in the war.

Since Nikolai Lenin died Jan. 21, 1924, Stalin had been the real leader as secretary general of the Communist party. Vladimir Molotov had become premier in 1931 in succession to Alexei Rykov, who was liquidated in the 1938 purge. Molotov became foreign minister also, in succession to Maxim Litvinov, in 1938, and his assumption of the foreign ministry marked the switch in Russian foreign policy from co-operation with the democracies to a deal with Germany on the eve of the war.

Russia Shows Uneasiness
For five months now Russia has shown uneasiness over German expansion.

(The United Press Vichy correspondent reported only yesterday, on the basis of diplomatic dispatches from Moscow, that Russia was hastening its forces in the southwest, facing Poland and Rumania, and was giving priority on main railroads to troops and munitions trains.)

It was regarded as especially noteworthy that Stalin assumed the prime ministry at the moment when Germany virtually had reached the Turkish Dardanelles, Russia's outlet from the Black sea, after conquering the Balkans, establishing its domination on the west coast of the Black sea and igniting Arab nationalist spirit near Russia's back door in the middle east.

In the view of diplomats Stalin's move was undoubtedly the result of growing international tension and probably constituted an implicit warning to Germany to watch its step. It already had banned the shipment of origin war materials through Russia, and there had been many hints to Germany in the form of various pronouncements on the situation in Rumania, Bulgaria, Turkey and Yugoslavia.

There was no disposition, in responsible quarters to do any wistful thinking as regards improved Russian relations with Great Britain. There was no indication of any improvement.

Prime Minister
Moscow, May 7.—(UP)—Three official decrees announced to the Russian people and the world today that Josef Stalin had assumed in name the authority he had exercised in fact for 17 years, taking the prime ministry which his close associate, Vladimir Molotov, had held since 1931.

The official news agency Tass announced the decrees as follows:

"In view of Molotov's repeated statements to the effect that it is difficult for him to fulfill the duties of chairman of the council of people's commissars of the Soviet union simultaneously with the duties of people's commissar for foreign affairs, to comply with Molotov's request to relieve him of his duties."

"The appointment of Josef Vissarionovich Stalin chairman of the council of people's commissars of the Soviet union."

The news was announced over all radio stations.

Now Stalin holds the joint post of secretary general of the Communist party, in which he had been the leader in fact since Lenin's death, and the prime minister. Thus he exerted the double authority which Lenin had exerted. Previously Stalin's only official connection with the government had been as a member of the presidium of the supreme Soviet and a member of the congress of Soviets.

Actually Stalin had been personally active in Russian foreign affairs, especially since Molotov succeeded Maxim Litvinov as foreign commissar.

Elwood, Indiana
Couple Has Been Married 70 Years

Elwood, Ind., May 7.—(INS)—Elwood listed among its residents today one of the oldest married couples in the country—Mr. and Mrs. Zachary Taylor Broyles. Mr. Broyles is 92 years old and his wife is 87.

The explanation for 70 pleasant years of married life is simple. "We've always lived to help each other all we could, and to help others," they explained.

Elwood was named Quincy, a bustling community of the gas-light era, when the couple was married 70 years ago. None of the guests at their wedding are now alive.

That was a score of years before Wendell L. Willkie was born in the same city.

Mrs. Broyles was reared and married in a home situated where a drugstore now does business in the heart of Elwood's commercial district, while her husband recalls when the entire southwest section of the town was a farmland cultivated by his father, Gamson Broyles.

The couple moved into town when Broyles retired from farming 40 years ago. Mrs. Broyles does her own housework and cooking, while her husband still is able to get about with the aid of two canes.

William Broyles, their only son, was killed 10 years ago in a fall from a haymow. Mrs. Broyles has a sister, Mrs. Emma O'Rourke of Anaheim, Cal.

Science Seeks Longevity Key To Giant Tree

"Post Mortem" Arranged Over Storm-Felled Sequoia

By ROBERT FAHS
United Press Staff Correspondent
Sequoia National Park, Cal., May 7.—(UP)—When the snow has melted early this summer from the 7,000-foot level of Sequoia national park, botanists and naturalists will try to determine what caused the death of one of the world's oldest living things.

The experts will come here to inspect a fallen giant Sequoia tree which crashed during a storm in February.

An effort will be made to determine the age of the tree.

The tree, a majestic Sequoia Gigantea, was 275 feet high and 27 feet in diameter at the base. The tree stood in the giant forest near winter headquarters of Sequoia park, but it was not named.

Growing Area Confined
Botanists, naturalists and tree experts generally are anxious to learn more about the Sequoia Gigantea, which is found only in a limited area of the Sierra-Nevada mountains.

The falling of one of the majestic trees, which a U. S. forestry department survey showed was the most popular tree in America and therefore made the Sequoia the official tree of the United States, is considered highly unusual and much interest is attached to the "post mortem."

In the past several years, a few Sequoias have fallen—not more than a dozen and none as large as the one that crashed last winter—but until a few years ago none of the trees had been known to fall over a long period of time.

Sequoias are the largest trees in the world. The General Sherman, a few miles from where the unnamed tree fell, is the largest tree in the world. It is 272 feet high with a diameter of 30.7 feet at the base. The General Grant tree, in the General Grant grove of Kings Canyon National park near Sequoia park, is perhaps the most famous Sequoia tree. The General Grant is known as the nation's Christmas tree and each Christmas day for 15 years services have been conducted at the base of General Grant, symbolizing the nation's Christmas devotions.

Oldest Living Things
Sequoias are the oldest living things on earth and the General Grant and General Sherman trees are estimated to be 5,000 years old, having started to grow hundreds of years before Christ was born.

Sequoias are extremely difficult to kill since they resist fire and are not known to be affected by insect pests. The wood, consequently, lasts almost indefinitely, even after a tree has fallen, and the trunks of giants that fell centuries ago still may be seen.

The tree that fell this winter smashed the summer cabin of E. T. Scoyen, superintendent of Sequoia park.

After the snow has melted and the debris has been cleaned up, the tree experts will inspect the fallen giant in an effort to add new facts to the lore of the world's oldest living things.

Warning to Mothers:
WORMS
CAN CAUSE TROUBLE

Learn the truth! Anybody, anywhere, can have roundworms. And they can cause great distress inside your child without your even knowing what is wrong.

Many pale, nervous, underweight children have roundworms. Other innocent-looking warning signs are urinary stomach, indigestion, itchy seat, nose-picking.

Don't take chances with roundworms! Get Jayne's Vermifuge today! It is America's best known proprietary worm medicine—used by millions, for over a century. Jayne's expels stubborn roundworms, yet acts gently. If there are no worms, it works just as a mild laxative. Insist on Jayne's Vermifuge.
